The Lady with the Lamp“Glow of hope.”

FOUNDER OF MODERN NURSING

Florence Nightingale

(12th May 1820 - 13th Aug 1910)

Florence Nightingale, born on 12th May, 1820, into a rich, upper class and well connected British family at Villa Columbia, near Porta Romana at Bellosguardo in Florence, Italy and was named after the city of her birth.

A year later she joined the Institute for Protestant Deaconesses at Kaiserwerth in Germany and from thereon she moved to a hospital in St.Germain, near Paris, run by the Sisters of Mercy.

An Anglican believed that God had called her to be a nurse ; Florence announced her decision to enter Nursing in 1844

She came to prominence for her pioneering work in Nursing during the Crimean War. On 4th Nov, 1854 Florence and 38 nurses entered the Barrack Hospital in Scutari and found the hospital to be filled with sufferings of the soldiers awaiting them.

In March 1854, Crimean War broke out Russia invaded Turkey. Britain, France, concerned about growing power of Russia, went to Turkey's aid. The wounded soldiers, crowded into unsanitary ships, came from Crimean Peninsula on the other side of the Black Sea to the Barrack hospital in Scutari, Turkey.

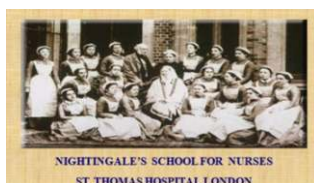

Florence Nightingale is the founder of Modern Nursing. She was called “The Lady with the Lamp” As she would take night rounds in the ward which stretched 4 miles.

Florence Nightingale was an innovator in the collection, tabulation, interpretation and graphical representation of descriptive statistics. For her contributions to army and hospital statistics, Florence Nightingale became the first woman to be elected as a Fellow of the Royal Statistical Society

Cecil Woodham Smith stated that “Two figures emerge from the Crimea as heroic, the soldier and the nurse. In each case a transformation in public estimation took place and in each case the transformation was due to Florence Nightingale.”

Florence received many honours. She was invited to Windsor by Queen Victoria to receive The Royal Red Cross in 1833.

The first secular Nursing School established a Nursing School at St Thomas, London in 1860.

Finally the indefatigable Miss Nightingale faded. She grew weaker and weaker and on 13th Aug, 1910, at an age of 90 she fell asleep never to wake again
